

The proposed rule is highly objectionable. Quite frankly, the rule should be an opt in where consumers may be called only if they so request. In any event, a do not call list should mean simply what it says: "do not call." Period.